This report discusses the air quality across the State of Nevada (except those areas in Clark and Washoe County) for the 12-year period 1992-2003. Clark and Washoe County operate and maintain monitoring networks separate from the State and publish their findings independently. Data presented are for the pollutants identified by the US EPA as having the most widespread health effects: carbon monoxide, ozone, nitrogen dioxide, sulfur dioxide, and inhalable particulate matter. In addition to air pollution levels and trends, the report discusses the state's demographics, air quality programs, types of monitoring stations, and state and federal air quality standards.

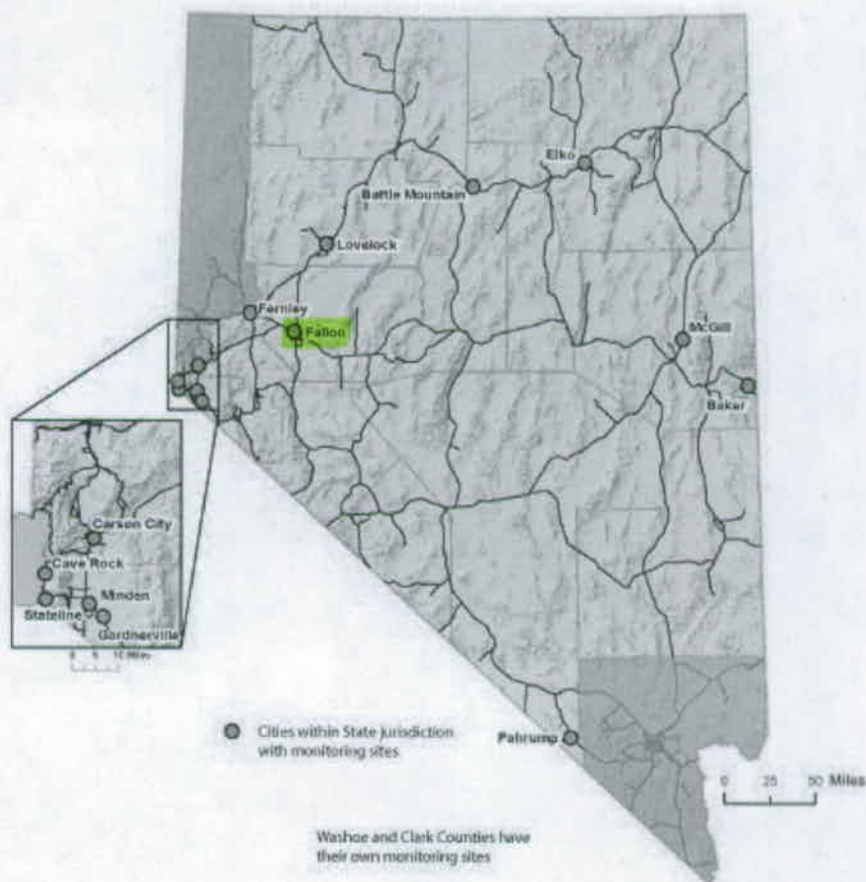

The menu bar to the left will guide you through this document. Upon request, a copy of this report can be received on cd.
